

Las Campanas... 12 kingdoms... 1 castle... Yours!

Now the only decision is where to build it... (or buy it)...

What if you found a secret hideaway where you could walk out your front door and step onto world-class putting greens? Or walk with a tangy margarita in hand, donning only your long white massage robe and slippers as you glide from the clubhouse to the spa...

A place so private and exclusive, yet so alive and full of residents just like yourself, looking for the lifestyle that most people only read about... you are living it...

Well, you have arrived and the name of this wonderful “club” of like-minded neighbors is called Las Campanas... located just to the northwest of the beautifully eclectic city of Santa Fe...

Las Campanas is a members-only community of more than 12 uniquely different neighborhoods within a 4,700 acre complex... Sprawled atop a high plateau overlooking the Santa Fe Valley while cozily nestled between the Sangre de Cristo and Jemez Mountain ranges... the famous natural lighting that Santa Fe is so well-known for, showers down especially bright on Las Campanas...

With homes of such unique design and architecture to choose from, not to mention all different styles of building materials, landscape layouts and locations... all relative to your passions... Las Campanas aims to please even the most discerning tastes...

There is not one, but two 18-hole Jack Nicklaus Signature Courses, rightly called “Sunrise” and “Sunset” based on their orientation...

...and just steps away from the ample one-acre sized Hacienda Clubhouse, where socializing is a way of life, you can squeeze in a couple of first-class tennis matches or lay back, close your eyes and enjoy a pedicure and facial at the famed Club Spa.

If horses are your thing, then you will be delighted at the incomparable equestrian facilities at Las Campanas, the only one of its kind found anywhere.
